

ALEXANDRIA.

MONDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 5.

WHEN MR. BRADY, of Virginia, a republican, was in Congress, all he said about Virginia was accepted as gospel truth by his republican Congressional colleagues, and by the republicans throughout the country. He spoke, he said, from personal knowledge, and as nobody denied that he had such knowledge of Virginia matters, his party had implicit faith in every word he uttered concerning those matters. Mr. Brady was in Congress only six months ago. Mentally and morally he is the same man now he was then, and what he says as an ex-member of Congress is certainly entitled to as much credence as what he said as a member. Therefore, whenever Northern republican newspapers feel like denouncing the tyranny and oppression of the democratic leaders of the South, and the political outrages to which those leaders subject the republicans of this section, let them pause and read what Mr. Brady now says about the one man power to which the Virginia republicans are now subjected by their ex-democratic boss, which is as follows:

"General Mahone appoints his own special favorites chairmen of every city and county committee, and if they do not run things to his advantage he can remove them at his own sweet pleasure. By this usurpation of power he is enabled to dictate every nomination for the legislature in republican localities, and through his own personal agents he directs the party management everywhere regardless of the wishes of the people, going so far as to seek written pledges from republican nominees for the legislature to support and vote for him for senator."

THE FACT recently stated in the GAZETTE, that four hogheads of leaf tobacco, raised in Northumberland county, in this State, had just been shipped from there to market, suggests the idea that as wheat has now ceased to be a profitable crop in Tidewater Virginia, a partial return, at least, to the once chief crop of all this section of the State would not be disadvantageous to the farmers thereof. From the earliest settlement of Virginia down to within the memory of people yet alive large and profitable crops of tobacco were raised in all the counties of the State, from the falls of the Potomac to its mouth; indeed, so large was the crop that a great demand was at one time created in England for twine upon which to hang the tobacco leaves to be cured. The product of a small field of good tobacco is worth more than that of a large field of wheat, and as both fields have to be fertilized to raise anything, the saving in fertilizers alone would of itself be a matter of no small consideration. Wheat in Tidewater Virginia can't compete successfully with that of the Northwestern States, but the climate of this section is particularly advantageous to the growth of tobacco, and its soil is the natural home of that product, and though now, by constant use, considerably worn, is easily susceptible of the requisite improvement.

IT IS SUGGESTED that the proposed Mt. Vernon Avenue, to connect Mt. Vernon with the south end of the proposed bridge across the Potomac at Arlington, shall pass around, and not through Alexandria. No such idea should be given a moment's consideration. The main object of the avenue is to afford a good carriage road between this city and the National Capital, and it would be chiefly used for that purpose. That part of it between this city and Mt. Vernon would be used considerably, and would be of great convenience, not only to the people living along the line, but to visitors to Mt. Vernon; but the main portion of the travel on the road would be between Alexandria and Washington. For the road to go around this city, therefore, would be for it to antagonize the chief purpose for which its construction is desired. Washington street, on which stands the church Washington at tended, should be a part of the avenue, and Hunting Creek be crossed by a bridge near the site of the present one.

THAT MR. THORBE, who ran against Mr. Carlisle at the last Congressional election, and who threatened to contest Mr. Carlisle's right to a seat in the next Congress, had no good grounds for such a contest, and that those who supported him are of that opinion, is proved by the fact that he has not gone to the little expense necessary to take the requisite steps for contesting Mr. Carlisle's election. Mr. Carlisle's re-election to the Speakership is just as sure as was his re-election to the House. It is hoped that in his construction of the House committees he will put none but true blue democrats on guard.

THAT THE farmers of Fauquier are not to be led out of the democratic party upon any side issues or seisms was demonstrated on Saturday last, when, in their choice of delegates to the county convention for Delegate and Floater, representatives were chosen opposed, in toto, to the attempt to antagonize the farmers with the regular democratic organization. And so it will be whenever the attempt is made. Farmers are democrats and democrats are farmers.

Business men of New York generally are opposed to observing the Saturday half-holiday, and many of them declare that it will be utterly ignored by them hereafter. They say it is impossible to estimate the injury to their business that would result from a continuance of the Saturday half-holiday during the fall and winter months.

FROM WASHINGTON.

(Special Correspondence of the Alex. Gazette)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 5, 1887.

Mr. Barbour has returned, looking as if he had been considerably improved by his trip to the springs. He will now assume personal control of the full campaign in Virginia, and will conduct it actively. At the departments here it is said that while for any important law question in which the interests of Virginia are concerned, Senator Daniel of that State is consulted, on matters relating to politics and to political management there, they always consult Mr. Barbour.

Mr. Frank Hume says the newspaper notices to the effect that he is a possible candidate for the Virginia House of Delegates in Alexandria city and county are unwarranted, and that he is not and will not be a candidate for the office referred to.

A club of colored Virginia democrats was organized here last week, with G. W. Fisher as president and W. P. Morton secretary. Among the speakers at the meeting were J. B. Syphax of Alexandria county and R. D. Beckley of Fairfax county.

Among the strangers in the city to-day is Mr. Ryan, member of the last House of Delegates from Loudoun county. Mr. Ryan says primaries were held in his county for his successor by the democrats last Saturday, and though he is not certain, from what he has heard he thinks he has been re-nominated. He says there is some talk of a temperance candidate, upon whom the opposition will unite, but that he does not know whether there will be such an one or not.

The international medical congress assembled here to-day in Albaugh's Opera House, which was crowded to its utmost capacity with delegates and spectators, the former to the number of about two thousand. Proceedings were opened by President Cleveland, who simply rose from his seat on the stand and stated that the congress was ready for organization. Dr. Davis, of Chicago, then took the president's chair. The other officers were then announced. Secretary Bayard then delivered an address of welcome to the foreign delegates, who sat near the stage so as to see the President, and among whom were Grant Bey, of Cairo, with his red fez; Dr. McDonald, Inspector General of the British Navy; Dr. Kay, of Beyrout; Dr. Moore, of Dublin University; Dr. Boon, of Shanghai; Drs. La Fort and Recamier, of Paris; Dr. Semmola, of Naples; Dr. Hewitt, of London, and numerous others. Dr. Davis in his speech spoke of the great benefit the medical profession had been to States and nations by its scientific discoveries. Much regret was expressed among the individual members at the death of Dr. Wetmore, of Illinois, a delegate who was killed by a railroad accident while on his way here. The general congress adjourned before one o'clock. The eighteen separate sections into which it is divided met in their respective halls at three o'clock this afternoon. The members of U. S. medical boards in the Pension Office were to act as the reception committee, but when they were informed that they would have to pay the regular subscription fee, they kicked, and the duty referred to has been assigned to the resident practicing physicians. There was a large and elaborate exhibition of articles used in medicine and surgery. There was no admission fee to the general congress, but tickets enabling the holder to the sessions of the sections cost $10.

Secretary Fairchild, who has been called back from his summer vacation to consult with the President and Messrs. Carlisle and Mills with reference to the tariff reform bill to be presented at the next session of Congress, is expected here this afternoon.

Mr. Miller, commissioner of internal revenue, who has been away ill, as reported, with Bright's disease has returned, and was at his office to-day attending to his duties.

Boulanger's Fortune Told.

A Paris dispatch to the London Standard says: The Figaro vouchers for the truth of the following story, of which, of course, Gen. Boulanger is the hero: About eight or ten weeks before the fall of the Goblet Cabinet Mme. Reival, a fortune teller, was summoned to the house of a lady to exercise her art of palmistry. Among others the Minister of War asked her to tell his fortune and it is affirmed that, without having any idea who he was, she examined his hand and declared that he was a soldier who had served his country on the battlefield and would again be engaged in war.

Gen. Boulanger pretended that she was mistaken, whereupon the fortune teller said: "I am only telling you what I see in your hand." She proceeded with an examination, and added: "You are in an unhappy situation, but you will not keep it. All is awaiting you shortly. But do not despair. Later on you will obtain an even higher position. The lines of your hand indicate that you will almost reach a throne." A little later Mme. Reival was told that it was Gen. Boulanger to whom she had made the above predictions. "Oh!" she replied, "in that case I am glad I did not tell him that he would die a violent death."

Very shortly after this the General was at the house of one of Dr. Charcot's friends, and in presence of that celebrated professor and some of the subjects of his clinical lectures and experiments the conversation naturally turned on hypnotism, double vision, magnetism and nervous phenomena. Dr. Charcot declared in decided language that he did not believe in the faculty of subjects put into a trance by magnetism to foretell the future. The considerable development of magnetic electricity might certainly excite the faculties and augment the intellectual powers in the same way as it exaggerated the nervous sensations, but he would not admit that those phenomena went beyond the material world.

A young woman who was regarded as a good subject was then put into a magnetic sleep and questioned by Gen. Boulanger. Like the fortune teller, she predicted his approaching fall, which was to be accompanied with numerous popular movements without bloodshed. She added: "I foresee in the near future great commotion and upsetting of things. It is terrible. The French and Germans cannot live in peace. A war will break out between them, but one of them will take beyond the Rhine, where peace will be signed. Then on the other side of the Rhine I see revolution, shattered crowns and thrones overturned, and on this side the victorious general will be proclaimed chief. He will be the highest of all."

A REMARKABLE PERFORMANCE.—Mr. Lemuel Towers, the Government stenographer, who has been taking the official testimony for Examiner Okey in the Castle Garden, New York, investigation, is a remarkable young man. He is 25 years of age and is engaged in one of the Treasury divisions at Washington. He writes long-hand with his left hand and short-hand with his right. He possesses such perfect control of his muscles that he is able to write an ordinary official letter in both long and short-hand at the same time. The fact itself is, however, remarkable, and the faculty was only developed, Mr. Towers says, by the exercise of considerable will power. He says he practices it continually, but strange to say, he will utterly fails him when he tries to write long-hand with his right hand.

Robert Asher Gray, a prominent citizen of Rockbridge county, died at "Hill Top," his home, in that county, on Aug. 27th last, aged 61 years.

The trial of Watkins Dupuy, for the murder of his wife, is in progress in the Circuit Court of Prince Edward county. Dupuy's crime which was committed in February last, was the outgrowth of long nurtured jealousy.

Rev. W. Gaston Payne, a native of Warrenton, who was ordained in Rome last December by Rt. Rev. Bishop Keane, is temporarily stationed at the Cathedral in Richmond. He will be assigned to duty as assistant in one of the churches in that city at an early day.

Bishop Keane's clergy, on the occasion of their presence together at Georgetown College, sent a fitting congratulatory address to Pope Leo XIII., on the occasion of his golden jubilee. It was signed by the Reverend Bishop and his priests in order of their seniority.

It is stated that the noted Peaks of Otter, in Bedford county, have been sold to a syndicate of Baltimore capitalists, who purpose making improvements amounting to fifty thousand dollars on the property. A handsome hotel will be erected, apart laid out and good roads constructed before the next season approaches.

Reports received from all parts of the State by Col. Randolph Harrison, Commissioner of Agriculture, indicate that the corn crop of Virginia is unusually good. The section known as Middle Virginia gives the best returns. The average percentage is precisely 100. The yield in some localities is estimated at 125 per cent.

Early yesterday morning a negro man named Thomas Deadman was shot and killed in Norfolk by Minnie Cooper, also colored, in a fracas originating about Deadman's wife, who the murdered man claimed, paid more attention to Cooper than to her husband. Cooper claims that he shot Deadman in self defense. He gave himself up.

A fire at 1 a. m. Saturday morning destroyed the Central Hotel at Suffolk, owned by Mrs. S. J. Wright and occupied by her, J. C. Crittenden and Mrs. Fitchett as dwellings. Fears were entertained of a general conflagration, but by hard work the fire was confined to the building where it began. The loss, said to be covered by insurance, is about $4,000.

Contracts for supplying forage for the Life Saving Service on the Virginia and North Carolina coasts have been awarded the following named persons: W. C. Lindsay, of Portsmouth, for hay, at seventy-eight cents per 100 pounds; Evans Burwell, of Norfolk, rice straw, at eighty-three cents per 100 pounds; corn at $1.04 per 100 pounds, and oats at $1.17 per 100 pounds.

Deputy Marshal Brogan, of Danville, brought back from Washington to Virginia on Saturday morning a colored man, James R. Fellen, who had been killed at Danville on the charge of violating the internal revenue law. As he had left the State, Silas Carter, his bondsman, obtained a bail piece, and after Fellen had been arrested he was turned over to the deputy marshal of the Danville district.

Detective Wilkes, of Staunton, arrived at Brandon, Ont., on Saturday and caused the arrest of Charles Clendhurst, a carriage maker, on a charge of forgery at Staunton. Clendhurst is one of the firm of Clendhurst & Bodell, lately carriage manufacturers at Staunton. Bodell is also wanted on the same charge, but his whereabouts at present is unknown. The case was heard before Judge Jones Saturday and Clendhurst was remanded for eight days in order to bring witnesses from Virginia.

The following changes in the star route mail service in Virginia are announced: From Potomac to Dumfries: Leave Potomac daily, except Sundays, at 10:30 a. m., arriving at Dumfries at 12 m.; leave Dumfries daily, except Sundays, at 8:15 a. m., arriving at Potomac at 9:45 a. m. From Orange Court House to Oak Park: Leave Orange Court House daily, except Sundays, at 1 p. m., or after arrival of mail train, arriving at Oak Park in five hours; leave Oak Park daily, except Sundays, at 7 a. m., arriving at Orange Court House by 12 m.

They say that the beautiful belle of Washington, Miss—, uses cosmetics but it is a vile slander. She owes her bloom to excellent health, and she keeps well by using Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

KILLED BY AN ENRAGED HUSBAND.—About 6 o'clock last night a shooting affray, which will probably result in the death of a prominent citizen named Capt. Miller, occurred at Shelton, a little village near Birmingham, Conn. There have been rumors that Miller was intimate with the wife of a man named Joseph Bolton, and yesterday, when he returned unexpectedly, he found Miller in his house. When Miller saw the enraged Bolton he ran toward the outer door. Bolton drew a revolver and started in pursuit. After running a short distance Bolton fired two shots, both of which took effect in Miller's lungs. Bolton replaced the revolver in his pocket and started at once to the office of the prosecuting attorney. He notified the attorney that Miller was guilty of adultery, and on his evidence a warrant was furnished for Miller's arrest. Miller was found by the officers, still bleeding from his wounds. They learned the facts of the case, and immediately carried him to a comfortable place, where physicians were summoned to attend him. The physicians are of the opinion that Miller cannot recover, and an unsuccessful attempt has been made to take his ante-mortem statement. Bolton has not been arrested, but states that he shall not attempt to run away. Mrs. Bolton is said to be an exceedingly attractive person. Miller is a rich widower and has four married children.

TO-DAY'S TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

International Medical Congress.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—In round number it is estimated that the invading army of doctors now contains about five thousand individuals. The work of registration is still in progress and exact figures are not yet attainable. Of these nine-tenths are Americans. Before the hour for opening the Congress every seat in Albaugh's Opera House was occupied. President Cleveland, Secretary Bayard and Speaker Carlisle were escorted by Dr. Garnett to seats upon the stage at eleven o'clock and were greeted with applause by the audience. The assemblage was called to order by Professor Henry M. Smith, of Philadelphia, chairman of the executive committee, who explained the object of the meeting. President Cleveland, who had been invited to deliver the address of welcome, then arose, and when the applause had subsided he said: "I feel that the country should be congratulated to-day upon the presence at our capital of so many of our own citizens and those representing foreign countries who have distinguished themselves in the science of medicine and are devoted to its further progress. My duty on this occasion is a very pleasing and a very brief one. It is simply to declare that the Ninth International Medical Congress is now open for organization and for the transaction of business." The chairman of the executive committee then proceeded to nominate the gentlemen agreed upon by the committee to be officers of the Congress. For President of the Congress Dr. N. S. Davis, of Chicago, was elected by acclamation. Dr. John B. Hamilton, Supervising Surgeon General of the U. S. Marine Hospital Service, was unanimously elected Secretary General of the Congress, and took his place and nominated the gentlemen agreed upon as vice presidents of the congress, who were elected. The list contains a hundred or more names. The only Americans in the list are ex-presidents of the American Medical Association and the Surgeons General of the Army and Navy. The secretary then read his report. Dr. A. Y. P. Garnett, chairman of the committee on arrangements, announced the social programme for the Congress. President Davis now introduced the Hon. Thos. F. Bayard, Secretary of State of the United States, who welcomed the Congress in a few well timed remarks. The welcome was acknowledged and responded to briefly by members of the Congress on behalf of their respective nations, after which President Davis proceeded to deliver his opening address. The presiding officer proposed a vote of thanks to Prof. Davis, which was enthusiastically accorded, and then announced the Congress adjourned till ten o'clock to-morrow.

The B. & O. R. R.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 5.—Vice-President Spencer was seen to-day and stated there is no intention nor probability of the Baltimore and Ohio road passing to the control of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, nor will it be subordinated to that road or to the Reading, but will continue to be operated as an independent line. He said the moneyed arrangement which has been negotiated through London and New York bankers was intended to meet the wants of the Baltimore and Ohio road and the money will only be used as needed. He further said there are now no negotiations going on for the sale of the telegraphic or sleeping car systems nor will there be any sale of those auxiliary lines unless the board of directors shall see clearly that the best interests of the company will be subserved thereby. Mr. Garrett has not ceased to be president of the Baltimore and Ohio Company.

There was a drop in Baltimore & Ohio railroad stock at the Stock Board to-day. On Saturday 151 was bid and to-day it opened at 148 and dropped to 147, closing weak. This is the lowest price at which the stock has been sold for years, and a further decline is looked for.

Fire in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Shortly after one o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the five story brown stone front tenement house No 522 West 50th street. The fire started through some unknown cause and did but little damage on the second floor. It ascended through the air shaft and badly gutted the three upper floors. Owing to the dangerous situation of the numerous tenants three alarms were sent out. The house was fitted up for ten families. It was nearly 3 o'clock before the fire was got under control. It was rumored that several people had been burned, but after the flames were extinguished the firemen made a careful search of the burned building but no bodies were discovered. The occupants of the burned building lost everything they possessed and only one of them was insured. The loss to the building, which was owned by Potter Brothers, is about $10,000 and that to the occupants will be about $3,000. The building 524 was damaged considerably, as was 520. A fireman was seriously injured by falling brick.

Rioter Killed.

HELENA, Ark., Sept. 5.—Quite late last night quite a large number of white tie makers became intoxicated at Mariana and raised a disturbance in the town by cursing and discharging pistols. Marshall Ford arrested one of their number and while on his way to the lockup the crowd attempted to take the prisoner away. Mr. Ford pulled his pistol after the crowd commenced firing and after the smoke cleared away one of the rioters was found dead, killed by a pistol ball. Nine of the rioters are now in jail awaiting the action of the court. Had it not been for the prompt and determined action of the marshal there would have been a general riot and considerable bloodshed.

The Bulgarian Question.

SOFIA, Sept. 5.—Stambuloff, the Prime Minister, in an interview regarding the proposal of Russia to have a joint Russo-Turkish commission visit Bulgaria and arrange her affairs, said if Gen. Ernroth and Artin Effendi came as private persons they would be admitted into Bulgaria, but not otherwise. Bulgaria was alive to Russia's objects and would repel any interference in her internal affairs by any power whatever. If Russia liked to send Gen. Ernroth to Bulgaria as her diplomatic agent that would be different. Both he and Artin Effendi would be courteously received if duly accredited diplomats.

Steamer Burned.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 5.—The steamboat Avalon, of the Maryland Steamboat Company's fleet, was destroyed by fire last night at Freeport, Virginia, on the Great Wicomico river. She was entirely destroyed. Damage $90,000; insurance $60,000.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Queen will confer the order of knighthood upon Dr. Morell Mackenzie.

The great stove moulders' strike, which began in St. Louis last March, spreading over the entire country, and was kept up in St. Louis long after it succumbed elsewhere, has finally collapsed.

Gen. B. F. Butler suggests, as the easiest and quickest way of getting rid of the surplus in the Treasury, to make a service pension for every Union soldier who served in the war who was honorably discharged, and, after they are provided for, to apply the balance to the relief of needy ex Confederates.

The International Medical Congress met in Washington to-day. Upwards of fifteen hundred physicians had registered up to last night. Two female physicians are in attendance. A large number of distinguished foreigners are present. The work mapped out for the congress embraces a variety and range of subjects of practical and theoretical importance.

The Irish Catholic Benevolent Union of America, which numbers over 30,000, will begin its convention in Washington on Wednesday and last three days. Mr. Glennan, postmaster of Norfolk, is the president, successor to Hon. A. M. Keiley, who held that position for several years. Martin J. Griffin, of Philadelphia, is the secretary and treasurer.

One hundred and five members of the New York Veteran Firemen's Association started this morning on an excursion to San Francisco. The trip will occupy twenty-seven days and will cost the association $50,000. Cappa's Seventh regiment band will accompany the excursionists, and will receive for their services $17,000. Gilmore's band refused to go for less than $20,000.

The famous Chicago barber shop, whose floor was inlaid with silver dollars, will be rivalled in New York by Assemblyman Chas. Smith's liquor saloon. The floor is covered with small marble blocks; on each slab a hole is bored, into which a silver dollar has been firmly, and very firmly, cemented. Seven hundred silver dollars were required to fit out the gorgeous saloon. Besides this, the beer pumps, gas fixtures, etc., are ornamented with silver dollars.

Robert B. Morris, a white man, was killed in Washington on Saturday night by Beverly Jones, a negro, who stabbed him in the eye with an umbrella. Morris hid a bottle of whiskey in the stable where he worked, and Jones stole and drank a portion of it. A quarrel arose over the matter, and when Morris threatened personal injury to Jones the latter said: "I'll jab your eye with this umbrella." Suiting the action to the word, he made a lunge, and the end of the umbrella penetrated Morris's eye, causing death after several hours of agony.
